CURT JETT TELLS OF BREATH- ING COUNTY ASSASSI- NATIONS.

Judge Hargis and Ed. Callahan
Chief Conspirators: Alex.
Hargis and B. F. French
Exonerated.

Curt Jett at the Cynthiana jail pending a trial made a confession on June 9 relative to the killing of Cox, Cockrell and Marcum. He admits that he killed Marcum, shot Cockrell at least once, but had no part in the killing of Cox. We extract from his confession "Me, John Smith and John Abner killed Jim Cockrell. Bob Deaton went after Abner Smith. Judge Hargis, Callahan and I fixed it up to kill him. They suggested sending for Abner Smith and Judge Hargis sent Bob Deaton. They came on Saturday night. Hargis slept in his store, so we would know where to find him. Elbert Hargis and I slept in my room. In trying to make Judge Hargis they waked us. We put their horses in Hargis' barn. (He tells how they were secreted and fed on Sunday and how they went to old office on second floor of court house where he supplied them with beer and food.) Judge Hargis sent Wm. Britton in office at foot of stairway to keep people from going up. (Cockrell was expected in town on Monday and came.) Judge Hargis said you go up, these men don't know Cockrell. Don't you shoot. I went up and tapped three times. Smith and I fled from one window and Abner from another. I shot the first shot and they the next. After the shooting I slid down the stairway on the banister—that is why no one heard me coming down. (He then tells how he and Elbert Hargis got them down after dark and across the river and away.) They went to Callahan's and stayed that night.

Alex. Hargis never mentioned such a thing to me and always tried to keep down trouble. He is an innocent man.

Ques.—Had you and Callahan talked about this before the killing?

Ans.—Yes, and Callahan went down the railroad and came back on the same train that Cockrell did that day, but Hargis did all the planning.

Ques.—Who first told you that Cockrell was in town?

Ans.—Jim Hargis told me Cockrell was coming in on that 11:30 train. I think Jim's wife was suspicious, for she asked me what was the trouble.

JIM HARGIS FURNISHED GUNS.

Ques.—Who furnished the guns?

Ans.—Jim Hargis, out of his office.

Ques.—Did B. F. French have anything to do with this killing?

Ans.—No, sir; that man never advised me or mentioned this trouble; he may be guilty, but I don't know it. I never heard told of it.

Ques.—Were the details arranged by you and him (Hargis)?

Ans.—He arranged and I helped carry them out. He told me 2 or 3 days before the killing that Smith and Abner were coming to help kill him.

CALLAHAN'S PART.

He and Callahan talked of killing before the killing. Callahan went to room upstairs, while Cockrell was standing on street. I said: "If we are going to do this thing, we had better do it," and Callahan said: "I had better get out of here."

THE MARCUM KILLING.

I am the man who killed Marcum. Callahan sent for me to come to Court House on Sunday. I went and Callahan said: "Curt, Tom White is here and we want to kill Jim Marcum tomorrow, there is no one I can depend on like you." I stayed at jail that night and next morning I was talking to Nancy Spencer. If I had listened to her advice I wouldn't be here to-day. Hargis Spicer called me and said they (Hargis and Callahan) wanted Marcum killed and that Tom White was there to help kill him.

Callahan gave me a pistol, and said he wanted me to kill Marcum and "they would never quit me." He then tells how he and White entered Court House where Marcum was, how White was to raise fuss and kill Marcum, or if Marcum was getting best of it I was not to let him kill White. We knew our business. I seen that White was not going to shoot him, so I shot him and when he fell I walked up and shot him again. J. B. Ewan swore the truth.

Jett knew of no others being connected with the killing except Callahan, Hargis, Asbury Spicer, White and himself.

The Court of Appeals yesterday by unanimous action declared section 1303 of the Kentucky statutes, governing the Sunday closing of saloons in Louisville, to be constitutional and enforceable, but declined to require Judge McCann to redocket the dismised case, the court assuming that he will, with pleasure, enforce the law and discharge his duty.

ANOTHER CONSPIRATOR

Testifies Against Judge Hargis, Etc.

On Wednesday, at Jackson, on a motion for bail for Judge Hargis in court, Asbury Spicer testified that in April, 1902, Judge James Hargis sent for him to come to Jackson. He came to Hargis' residence and found among others Judge Hargis, Ed. Callahan, Elbert Hargis, Jno. Smith, Jno. Abner, Jesse Spicer, who were planning to kill Dr. Cox; Judge Hargis told Smith, Abner and Spicer that if they would kill Cox he would give each $700. They agreed and planned the killing. These four and Elbert Hargis went to the shed where killing was done. Jesse Spicer and Elbert Hargis furnished the guns and left, Asbury Spicer dropped to sleep. Smith shot Cox and Abner was shooting when Spicer waked. Cox was killed, saying "O Lord, have mercy on me." They then went to rear yard of Hargis' residence, where he saw Hargis and Wm. Britton, but did not speak. Two weeks later Hargis gave him $100 and a cow.

CURT JETT ON STAND.

Jett was at jail talking to Wm. Spencer's family and had no part in the killing of Cox. When Alex. Hargis heard of the killing telephoned to Jett and Jett went to his house, later to Judge Hargis' house. In speaking of the killing said, "He (Cox) bellowed loud."

Anse White testified that Hargis gave him a pistol and told him to go to court house and kill Dr. Cox, W. W. Vaughn and McKinley Cockrell. He went, but had no intention of obeying the request. Hargis was on his brother's (Tom) bond.

H. B. Noble, Superintendent of Schools, testified that Hargis said: "he knew the boys had Cox because he bellowed like a bull."

Judge Hargis on the stand denied all the above statements about him.

April Term of Court of Appeals in At End Until September.

And here is what is to become of the Judges:

Judges Paynter, Carroll and Settle accompany Judge W. S. Pryor to Drennon Springs.

Chief Justice Hobson will go over his district and call on the counties prior to his election in the approaching November.

Judge Barker goes to his home in Louisville.

Judge E. C. O'Rear will, with his family, come to his Montgomery home.

A young man went to a preacher to get married and the preacher asked: "How old are you, John?" He replied: "I am half as old as my father. He is two years older than my mother. My eldest sister is two years older than my youngest sister. My youngest sister is four years older than my youngest brother." "How old are they all together?" asked the preacher. The young man replied that the five children are seventeen years older than his father and mother. How old is John and each of the children and his father and mother?—Ex.

In the Federal Court at Kansas City a jury returned a verdict finding the Burlington railway guilty on four counts of granting rebates to the Armour, Swift, Cudahy and Nelson Morris Packing Companies on export shipments. The penalty involves a fine of from $1,000 to $20,000 on each count.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT

Condition of Growing Crops.
Prospects, Etc.

A severe drouth prevailed throughout the State during most of May. Partial showers began in some localities on the 25th of May and continued until nearly every part of the State was reached. Damage was done, however, to nearly all the crops by dry weather. On corn land, and where soil is thin, wheat has headed low. One month ago the wheat crop promised to be a bumper crop, but for want of rain at the proper time it has lost very materially, and is now reported twenty-one points in condition below what it was in May. (Condition in June, 76; May, 97.) The oat crop has suffered more than any one of the grain crops. The present outlook for an oat crop is gloomy. The indications are that the acreage of Burley tobacco will be reduced below what it was last year. Plants in a large part of the district are late, and in many sections are scarce. Only about one fourth of the crop has been planted. There will also be a falling off in acreage of dark.

Grasses and meadows have suffered all over the State. The hay crop will necessarily be a short one. The drouth, coming on as early in the season as it did, checked the growth of meadows and made the grass too short to yield well. Clover, both old and young, have suffered for lack of moisture, and the condition is reported low. Apples and peaches promise something more than a half crop. Other fruits, grapes and berries promise better. Gardens were injured first by frost, and then by drouth, and are low in condition.

HUBERT VREELAND.

Commissioner of Agriculture.

A Long Step Toward Governmental Operation of Coal Mines.

According to a report from Washington published in the New York Herald, President Roosevelt desires that the Government to retain ownership of all such coal and oil lands as have not already passed into private or corporate ownership, and will endeavor to prevent any such lands passing into the possession of any individual or any private corporation.

Callahan and Elbert Hargis Arrested for murder of Dr. Cox.

On last Wednesday at Jackson these men were arrested on a warrant sworn out by Thomas Cockrell charging them with the murder of Dr. Cox.

See Curt Jett's confession and testimony of Asbury Spicer.

The House Committee on Agriculture has agreed upon a meat inspection amendment to the Agricultural Appropriation Bill. It places the cost of inspection on the Government and makes an appropriation of $2,000,000 a year to pay this cost. All meat and meat products which enter interstate commerce must bear Government labels.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Curators of Kentucky University, held at Lexington, the Rev. John S. Sweeney, for twenty years chairman, resigned and was succeeded by Judge Matt Walton.

Out of 875 saloon-keepers in the City of Louisville only four were reported as violators of the Sunday law Sunday, 10, and the City Attorney will ask that the license of these four be revoked.

H. V. McChesney deserves to be promoted to the position of Auditor.

Edgar's Tutor.

BY BELLE MANIATES.

(Copyright, 1906, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

My brother Tom has a most beautiful country place, a charming little wife, and my young nephew, Edgar, I simply adore, yet, for one reason, and one reason only, I am averse to visiting them. My sister-in-law has a match-making mania, and she is disconsolate over the fact that, in spite of her strenuous efforts and house parties in my behalf, I am still "unspoke for."

She makes her motive so very apparent to the luckless victim and to the onlookers, that from very shame I must needs be coldly aloof, and discourage any attentions. And yet, provoked as I have been at her maneuvers, I have never let her know how annoying her little schemes are to me, for they are worked from love and admiration for me, and she has a sensitive, warm, little heart.

But to-day when I read her letter urging me to come to Homewild for the month of August, I maintained for there was the inevitable postscript: "Oh, Allene, Tom has invited the dearest man in the world—next to himself—to spend the month with us! We met him when we went west last winter, although Tom used to know him long ago in college. He's just your sort of a man, and I have asked no one else. We'll be at quiet, little home party by ourselves."

My sort of a man, indeed! I don't know, myself, what sort that may be. I sat down in a white heat of anger, and laid bare my pent-up feelings to Nan. I told her I was sick and tired of being invited to meet some one for a certain purpose, and that if they had irrevocably invited this friend of Tom's for August, I would come in September. If they could put him off till September, however, I would come in August. I said many other things that I blush to recall. I posted my letter at once lest I repent of my heart-opinion.

I received in reply such a dear little note from Nan. She was so sorry, and she would not make any more. She and Tom had reconciled themselves to the idea that I was heart-whole and fancy-free, and would probably remain so. Tom's friend said he would prefer coming in September, and his visit had been postponed. If I came there would not be a single invited guest during the month. I felt a little penitent over my outbreak, but it was with great relief and happiness that I telegraphed that I would start to-night.

When I reached the little station near Homewild, my heart failed me at beholding, in waiting with Nan and Edgar, a man, big and powerful. He was introduced to me in a careless way by Nan as Mr. Saltern. I was reassured when she bade Edgar occupy the front seat of the touring car with him, and she and I took the back seat.

"Who is he?" I asked, in a for-bidding way.

"Only Edgar's tutor," she replied. "The lad got so behind in his studies last year when he went with us, that Tom engaged this man to coach him. Rather good looking, isn't he? Poor, though, and in love, judging from the conspicuous place in his room of a girl's photograph. I have come upon him several times gazing at it in a heart-breaking way."

We had a lovely evening. There was a soft misty rain—what Edgar called a "drizzle-drazele," and we all spent the evening within. Mr. Saltern seems to be quite a family. He is such a strapping, manly fellow, I shouldn't think toting would be his line.

I never had such a delightful week at Homewild. Such a quiet, restful time. I am studying Spanish with Mr. Saltern and Edgar. We three go on excursions to gerber. Edgar explores the woods and the river while his tutor and I sit on a fallen log and he reads Spanish. I don't understand much of it, but he has a rich, musical voice. Edgar won't study, so I utilize the lesson hours. I wonder who the girl is that he has the picture of? I wish I dare so to his room some time when he is out, but some one would be sure to catch me prying.

To-morrow is my last day at Homewild in peace and comfort, for Nan has invited some people down. I shall continue to devote most of my time to Spanish, however, as I am making such progress, and enjoy the study so much, but it won't be quite the same with curious people about. We are going for our last row on the river to-night.

We went far up the river last night, and drifted back. He didn't have to row. The light from a moon of pale orange shone deep down in the river, and somewhere in the wooded shores, a man's rich tenor voice was wafting forth, the notes falling with increasing cadence. We were talking seriously about life, and the end of my visit, and then, I don't remember how he told me, but the orange moon, the lights in the river, the soft lapping of the water against the boat, the distant song and what he whispered to me were all blended into one beautiful whole.

"After awhile he talked seriously again, this time about himself and his—I mean our—prospects. It seems he has a big business, but

"I DON'T UNDERSTAND MUCH OF IT"

It has come to a standstill pending the issue of a lawsuit, and in the meantime he is tutoring Edgar. In the fall he will be in position to go on with his business, and at Christmas I am going to his home with him.

I told Nan this morning while he had gone to the station with Tom to bring back the guests. To my surprise she was greatly pleased. Then she looked a little frightened.

"Oh, Allene, I don't know how to tell you, but he isn't Mr. Saltern. He isn't Edgar's tutor—don't look so stern, dear, but he is—"

"Jim Wilde, Tom's friend," I replied, calmly.

"Oh, Allene, how did you know? He told me he didn't know?"

"Tell me first why he is here in cognito."

"He was here when your awful letter came, and I didn't know what to do. I read it to Tom, and he just roared, and handed it to Jim, and they fixed up this scheme. It wasn't my plan. I felt guilty, but you were having such a good time, I couldn't spoil it. Tell me when you knew."

"I have known it for two weeks. One day when he and Tom were in town, and you were away somewhere, a storm came up, and I helped Katie put the windows down. I went in his room. There was a letter on the window seat addressed to Mr. James Wilde. On the dresser was my photograph, which you must have given him."

"He fell in love with you, Allene, as soon as he read your spiteful letter, and he borrowed your photograph."

"And so, after all, I had a match made for me by my sister-in-law."

Thought he had him.

Swelling The Chorus.

The New York Times represents the conservative element of the Democratic party. Speaking as such, it says:

"Times change, and men with them. A short decade separates us from the year 1896, in which Mr. Bryan made his first campaign for the presidency, and a still shorter time from the year in which he again became the candidate of his party. Yet in this bright period one of the most remarkable changes in public opinion of which the history of the country and its politics afford any example has been witnessed. Mr. Bryan is about to return to the United States after a year spent in foreign travel, and he will return to find himself acclaimed not only as almost inevitably the candidate of his party in the presidential campaign of 1908, but as a conservative, as a man likely to be acceptable in his candidacy to conservative voters."

Arkansas, Missouri and Indiana have already spoken. Through them spoke the will of the Central West, the West and the South-west. The Times speaks as the East will speak when the time to speak comes. Of the South's position there is, and has been, no ground for question. Supporting Mr. Parker untidily in the face of the opposition of every other section of the country it will support Mr. Bryan as untidily and with an enthusiasm born of confidence singularly lacking in the campaign of 1904.

The Times is right in saying that Mr. Bryan has grown steadily as a man and leader since 1896. Personally he was stronger in 1900 than in 1896. It was his personal strength that led to the pouring of corporate wealth into the campaign fund of the Republican party, making his defeat the defeat of the people rather than that of the individual. In 1906 these things are seen more clearly than they were in 1900. The people have done more of their own thinking. They are better acquainted with the meaning of the rule of Standard Oil, the Beef and allied Trusts. They have given Mr. Roosevelt fair trial. They have noted the distinction between the courage of his words and the compromise of his actions.

They know the methods which in 1904 made Mr. Roosevelt President by the grace of Mr. Cortelyou's campaign fund wrested from corporations under threat of exposure of offenses which, in this capacity as head of the Bureau of Commerce and Labor, he was sworn to prosecute.

They know Mr. Bryan. Knowing him, the Democratic party will unanimously nominate him for President in 1908. And in 1908, the Democratic party and the people will have the say.—Louisville Times.

Potato Flour.

While Irish potatoes may be eaten more extensively than any other American vegetable, it may not be generally known that they are capable of reduction to an excellent flour. In Austria, according to a government report, the manufacture of this flour is an important industry. Corn starch is largely unknown in Austria, potato flour being substituted.

It is stated to be cheaper than wheat flour and makes a beautifully light cake. The potatoes are washed in such a manner that the starch is separated from the cells that contain it. Water is used freely, carrying away the starch into settling vessels it is then refined, cleansed and dried. The residue is fed to stock and also used in distilleries, breweries and sugar factories.—Inland Farmer.

Oil Tank Struck By Lightning.

At Needles, Kan., lightning struck an oil tank containing 17,000 barrels of oil, causing a fire loss of $150,000. The burning oil set fire to the pumping station and all the company's buildings, including some of the largest pumps in the world, were destroyed.

Hubert Vreeland For Secretary of State.

So much encouragement has been given Hubert Vreeland, our present active and progressive young Commissioner of Agriculture, to offer himself again as a candidate for a State office, that after mature consideration he has decided to become a candidate for Secretary of State. It certainly looks like he has won for himself the backing of the farmers of Kentucky for whatever he may seek and in recognition of his efforts in their behalf since his election as State Commissioner thousands of them have urged him to offer for another State office, since the Constitution makes him ineligible for re-election. Mr. Vreeland has accomplished something in an office that was created for the farmers, but which had been of very little benefit to them, and it is refreshing to the Democratic Kentucky when they find public servants who devote all their time and thought to fulfilling the duties of their office with energy and intelligence.

Mr. Vreeland is the youngest of the present State officials, and until the last State election had never been a candidate for office. Although it was his first appearance he won his nomination for Commissioner of Agriculture by a majority of 26,000, next to the largest majority received by any candidate in the State primary, although opposed by two prominent candidates, who made most vigorous campaigns. Mr. Vreeland has a personal acquaintance probably not surpassed by any other young man in Kentucky, extending to scores and hundreds in every one of the 119 counties in Kentucky. He is a brother of John W. Vreeland, publisher of the Farmer's Home Journal, and at the head of the Democratic Executive Committee in Louisville and Jefferson county, and of Graham Vreeland, managing editor of the Courier-Journal, who for ten years was the Legislative correspondent of the Courier-Journal at Frankfort.

The Democratic nomination for State offices will be made again by State primary in November, and Mr. Vreeland has begun an active campaign. Up to the present time he has no opposition.

Blackburn Takes Place Vacated By Gorman.

The death of United States Senator Gorman leaves a vacancy as Chairman of the Democratic caucus, which carries with it the floor leadership.

Senator Blackburn has for several years been vice chairman of the caucus, and during Senator Gorman's illness has been in charge of the Democratic side. His long service in the upper branch of Congress and his intimate acquaintance with the details of legislation, as well as the position he occupies, at once suggested his name to the Democrats for leadership.

$30,000 Added to Endowment Fund 218 Students on Roll of College of The Bible.

The College of The Bible of Kentucky University, held its fortieth commencement on June 12.

Yesterday's exercises mark the close of the most successful year this institution has ever had. During the scholastic year $30,000 was added to the fund, $10,000 of which was received from Messrs. John and Ben Thomas, of Shelby county.

He was enthusiastic in what was accomplished this year and said rarely had any college enjoyed such prosperity. The enrollment this year was 218, which is the largest attendance ever recorded.

STRANGE ABSENCE

Of Dr. Letcher Green, Who Seems to Have Been Lost in Chicago.

Lexington, Ky., May 26.—The mysterious disappearance last October of Dr. Letcher Green, of Danville, Ky., became known here Friday. Dr. Green, a graduate of the Ohio Medical college, last October went to Chicago, and since then his mother has only heard from him once, and then only indirectly. He found a position in the Windy City, but the information received by her regarding her son was from a Mr. Priker, who stated that the young man had lost his position and was greatly discouraged. Dr. Green is a son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Green.

DISGUISED AS NEGRO WOMEN

Robbers Entered Candy Store at Lexington and Assaulted Proprietor.

Lexington, Ky., May 26.—Disguised as negro women robbers entered the confectionery store Friday night conducted by S. Gribbons, on Maxwell street, and assaulted the proprietor and ran out with the cash drawer. Gribbons, aged 30 years, was seriously injured. The robbers, assisted by confederates, escaped and remain at large.

Fusion Watson Nuptials.

Lexington, Ky., May 26.—A romance extending over a period of several years, with one of the principals in Kentucky and another in Montana, was culminated here in the marriage of H. F. Watson, county school superintendent of Bell county, and Miss Sara Watson, of Belgrade, Mont.

QUEEN'S GIFT DID NO GOOD

Child's Reward for Industry Appreciated by Her Heartless Relatives.

There are many stories told of the queen of Italy's act of kindness to her poor subjects. The following, however, shows that even the good intentions of queens are not always fulfilled. Her majesty recently noticed a plain-looking little girl and the queen spoke to her. There was a short conversation, and the queen asked the child what she could do in the way of needlework. "I can knit stockings, signora," replied the girl. "Do you know who I am?" continued the queen. "Yes, signora; you are the queen." Well, then, make me a pair of stockings and send them to the palace."

A few days afterward the articles arrived and the queen, in return for the gift, sent the child a beautiful pair of silk stockings, one filled with sweets, the other containing money. Next day the queen received a letter from her little friend, as follows: "Signora, your gift has caused me many tears. My father took the money, my big brother took the sweets, and as for the stockings, why, mother took them for herself."

Not Numerous.

One in a great while you encounter a man who works more than he ought to, but the average man doesn't do half as much as he is capable of doing.

A River Lining.

"How much did father lose by the great failure?" "He lost enough to rid the family of that penniless count."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

COLD DAYS IN CANADA.

When the Temperature Is 80 Degrees Below Zero a Month at a Time.

"Last winter, for a change, I went to Canada instead of Florida. Instead of a tropical, I tried an arctic winter. And I enjoyed it immeasurably."

The speaker, a rich young bachelor, lighted a cigarette, and continued, smiling at the blue smoke, as he lay back in his big chair:

"I spent a month in a temperature of 50 degrees below zero, and it was glorious—a white world, a deep blue sky, a pure air that cheered me like champagne."

The Canadian hotels were all comfortable. In a continuous temperature of 70 degrees I enjoyed my bath of a morning as well as I had done at Palm Beach. And, after a hearty breakfast, I put on a fur coat, a fur cap, fur gloves and mittens and went out for a day's sport at tobogganing, or curling, or skating, or skiing.

"Everybody was fun. Everybody looked like a millionaire. The pretty little shop girl, in her coat of beaver or fox fur, for once looked quite as fine as her sister, the banker's daughter."

"One dared not touch metal out of doors with the bare hand. If you did so you were burnt, as with a hot iron, and also there was an electric shock—a flash of blue at your finger tip, and a sharp pain running through you. It was quite easy to accumulate a store of electricity by shuffling the feet on the carpet, and then, turning on the gas, to light it by touching the burner with the tip of the finger."

"I gained in weight and strength in this latitude. Still, winter cold is a disagreeable thing. Under the blue sky of that white, frozen world, skating, tobogganing, sleighing, it was happier, as I breathed the air like champagne, than I had ever been of a winter in Monte Carlo, or Cairo, or Florida."

All in the Family.

The old story of keeping things in the family is recalled by the admission of Mrs. Ella Knowles Haskell, of Butte, Mont., to practice in the supreme court of the United States. In 1892 as Ella Knowles she was the populist candidate for attorney general of Montana and was defeated by Henry J. Haskell, Republican. After the election the successful and defeated candidates shook hands and were married and Attorney General Haskell made Mrs. Haskell assistant attorney general. Later they were divorced and Mrs. Haskell has since practiced law independently.

House in a Maple Tree.

A singular maple tree on the left bank of the Oder, in Germany, is at least a century old, and has been twisted and cut into a kind of circular house of two stories. A firm, lofty floor has been formed by causing the branches to become gradually woven together. Above this is a smaller second floor, similarly formed, and the ends of the branches have been woven into solid walls, in which eight windows on each story have been cut.

Motor-Car Pawnshop.

A traveling pawnshop, for the convenience chiefly of racing men, is the latest development of the commercial automobile in America. A New York pawnbroker has equipped a large automobile with a cash safe and a strong room, and has applied for a license to follow his calling on the racetracks during the season which is now commencing.

Handkerchief of War.

The non-commissioned officers of the First Herts Volunteer Battalion have been supplied with white pocket handkerchiefs, on which are printed full instructions for all emergencies and hints on first aid. The handkerchiefs belong to the regiment.

LAND STOCK AND CROP

N. O. Moss sold to Mr. Henry of Winchester, a 4 year-old gelding for $175.

B. P. Jeffries sold two fine Jersey cows to T. D. Jones for Job Melin and Mrs. Louisa Kash, of Hazel Green.

G. E. Coons has bought one of the desirable Bigstall foot on Syme road, 100x300 lot, of J. M. Bigstall for $1,000, and will at once erect a two-story brick.

Jas. W. White, of this county, sold last week to Mr. Dunlap, of Versailles, 20 yearling mules at $145 each. This is the highest price for yearling mules ever paid in this county.

Thomas Phelps, of Morgan, was in the city Monday with a 4-year-old mare which he sold to Ben Murphy for $145. He sold a pair of mules, six years old to W. H. Cannon, of Sharpsburg, for $200.

Interest in Woman Suffrage Grows.

At a meeting of the G. A. R. of the State Delaware last week a resolution endorsing woman suffrage was adopted. At about the same time the State Federations of Labor in Iowa and West Virginia adopted woman suffrage resolutions. The National League of American Municipalities in its annual Convention at Atlantic City accorded to Mrs. Rudolph Blankenbush, of Philadelphia, fraternal delegate from the National Woman Suffrage Association, twenty minutes in which to present this question.

With a woman suffrage amendment campaign in the State of Oregon and a municipal suffrage campaign on in Chicago which is endorsed by nearly all the leading women's organizations and prominent women of that city, there is altogether a great amount of favorable interest being taken in the subject.

Governor Pattison Dies.

John M. Pattison, Governor of Ohio, died at his home in Milford, Clermont county, Ohio, Monday afternoon at 1:20 o'clock.

Gov. Pattison had been ill since his election last November, but he has fulfilled the duties of his office with credit to himself, the Democratic party and the State of Ohio. He was the only Democrat on the State ticket that was elected last November, all of his running mates being defeated by from 30,000 to 40,000 majority.

By Gov. Pattison's death Gen. Andrew L. Harris, of Eaton, Ohio, a Republican, becomes acting Governor.

Teachers Elected.

The Trustees of the Mt. Sterling Graded School elected for the ensuing year the same teachers as last year. They are: H. M. Gunn, Superintendent; J. Earl Midkiff, Assistant Superintendent; Mrs. Mary Lookridge, Miss Mary Pratt Hedden, Miss Mattie Hoffman, Mrs. Sophia Randall, Miss Anna Laughlin, Mrs. Fannie Hunt Priest, Miss Lucy Owings and Miss Minnie Groves.

Change in Firm.

William H. Berry has purchased of J. H. Brunner a one-half interest in his shoe store. Mr. Berry is an energetic and successful young business man, and we are confident that the new firm of Brunner-Berry Shoe Company will be a big success from the start.

Store Burned By Lightning.

On Saturday night the general store of E. T. Taulbee & Son near Bunker Hill, was struck by lightning and destroyed. The building was not insured. His carried $2,000 on stock. His net loss approximately $2,500. On an adjoining farm 2 cows were killed.

Base Ball.

At a meeting of the members of the Mt. Sterling Base Ball Club Wednesday evening, Frank Wyatt, the star short stop, was elected captain of the team. The team could not have made a better selection, for "Tony" is always in the game and encouraging the rest of the team.

Birth Days.

On Saturday, June 15, Joseph Johnson, in the country, was 81 years old and J. G. Trimble, of this city, was 83. Both are active and energetic. Mr. Trimble is the oldest white man in town. J. Harvey Trimble, Milton McClure and John Steele, of the country, are older than either of them.

The following from here attended the annual June Hop at Olympia Springs Friday night:

Misses Mary Gatewood, Patti Powell, Grace Coyle, Serena Fitzpatrick; Messrs. Harry Stevenson, Ewing Wells, Stanley Wood, Norman Brown, Benton Kinsolving, Col. Gatewood, Dave Fox, Josh O'wyle, Catlett Everett, Charles Pyle, John Everett, Allie Lane, Richard French, Tom Coyle, Jim Magowan and Albert Samuels.

Killed With a Ball Bat.

On Saturday at Grasslick during a game of base ball a difficulty arose between a young married man Ed Packett and Herb Carriek, son of Robt. Carriek. In the fight between these two interfered. John Carriek struck Packett in the head with a base ball bat resulting in a few minutes in death. Chas. Puckett struck John Carriek with a bat injuring him so severely that Carriek could not be taken to jail.

Will of Mrs. Elizabeth Everett.

The will of Mrs. Elizabeth Everett, dated November 10, 1904, was probated on June 7. She gives to her son, Sam, all the books, paint, lugs, china, silver and household goods, furniture in her home at her death. Her daughter, Mrs. Wells, had already received her part. To her grand children, Gladys and William Everett, she gives two rings and one pin, and to J. M. Wells $100 with interest since October, 1892. Moreover to her son, Sam, she gives all the real estate bought from him after her death are paid, deducting $1,200 borrowed for his use, also $8,000 loaned to him. His part in her estate is not subject to his debts in any event. Her children are to settle these matters without intervention of a third party.

TRAGEDIES ON TOMBSTONES.

English Churchyard and Their Graven Charges of Murder.

In the churchyards of Britain several tombstones exist with the accusations of murder deeply engraved upon them. A stone over the grave of three children in Murrington (Durham) churchyard bears the following inscription:

In Sandridge churchyard, Surrey, on the tombstone of a custom house officer who was shot in an encounter with smugglers is the following: Thou shalt do no murder, nor shalt thou steal.

On a stone in Cadoxton churchyard, Glamorganshire, is inscribed the most fearful accusation of murder to be found on any tomb in Great Britain:

TO RECORD MURDER. This stone was erected over the body of Margaret Williams, aged twenty-six, living in service in this parish, who was found dead with marks of violence upon her in a ditch on a marsh below this churchyard on the morning of Sunday, July 14, 1852.

Although the savage murder escaped for a season the detection of man, yet God hath set his mark upon him either for time or eternity, and the cry of blood will surely pursue him to certain and terrible but righteous judgment.

A tombstone stood in Dulverton churchyard a few years ago on which was inscribed: Poisoned by the doctor, neglected by the nurse. The brother robbed the widow, which made the matter worse.

An accusation of murder appears on the tomb of Edwin, the Irish comedian, who was buried in St. Werburgh's churchyard, Dublin, and also on tombs to be found in Acton churchyard, Gloucestershire, Histon, near Rochester; Little Strickley and Nyton, near Clitheroe, Lancashire.—London Tit-Bits.

A Keen Eye Engineer.

An old engineer in the north of England was getting his sight tested by a doctor who lived in a house facing a large park. The doctor used to say to his patients "Look over there and tell me what you can see." When the engineer learned that his sight was to be tested he arranged with his son to take his bicycle half a mile into the park and be calling it. In due time the old man was led to the window, the doctor saying, as usual:

"What do you see?" The old man, peering out, said, "I see a young man stooping beside his bicycle."

"Do you?" said the doctor. "I don't see anything at all." "Nonsense," said the engineer. "Why, he is sitting it."

The doctor took up a pair of field glasses and plainly saw the same. "Magnificent sight," he said. "The engineer is still driving his wagon."—London Telegraph.

Mr. Conquered Carlyle.

The Rev. Thomas Alexander, a Presbyterian minister long resident in Chelsea and well known as a brother Scot, was most anxious to know Carlyle, but had no opportunity of getting an introduction to him. One day in the King's road he saw Carlyle coming in his direction and took advantage of the opportunity by going up to the sage and saying, "Thomas Carlyle, I believe?" Carlyle's reply was, "Tom Alexander, I know." They became good friends, and later Mr. Alexander wrote to Carlyle for a subscription to a school building fund, and Carlyle wrote back a refusal to do so, whereupon Mr. Alexander replied that if he did not send him $5 he would sell his poetry to a collector or publish it. The $5 was at once forthcoming.

Matchmaking Napoleon.

The first Napoleon was the greatest matchmaker that ever lived. After repeated refusals the doughty little soldier himself finally won the hand of Josephine and devoted his matrimonial instincts to the affairs of others. No excuse was admitted from a beeholder. To him who urged that he could not find a wife, "Be that my care," he said, and the next evening the affair would be arranged. "The plan is to believe in dowries and trousseaux. One day by decree the emperor married off 6,000 soldiers at once. Another day his great court dignitaries were obliged to make bed partners for better or for worse."

June Court.

About 600 cattle on the market. The quality was only fair, most of the stock offered being of light weight. Trade was good and at times brisk, prices were firm and about all the cattle sold by night. The best 1600-lb steers sold at $1.25; lighter weight at $3.25 to $3.75. Heifers at $3 to $3.75, the latter price for some fat stuff. Cows at $2 to 3 cents.

Good sized crowd at the pens with plenty of buyers among them, and there was quite a demand for some good 2-year-old steers but they were not here.

Pieratt & Duff sold 23 650-lb heifers to B. F. Hughes, of Clark county, at $3.25.

Milton Lykins sold a bunch of 650 and heifers to Dan Welch at $3 each. They weighed 850 lbs.

Sam Laythrum, of Bath county, bought of Henry Murphy seven 700-lb heifers at $2.75. Mr. Laythrum also bought twelve 600-lb heifers of Allen & Son at 3 cents.

Thos. Johnson sold a bunch of 600-lb heifers to M. B. Judge, of Nicholas county, at $3.25.

Henry Murphy sold sixteen 350-lb heifers to Mat Long & Bro., of Bourbon county, at 3 cents.

Geo. Halsey sold ten 650-lb heifers to Jo W. Downing, of Fayette county, at $3.25.

Morgan & Chase sold seven 700-lb steers to J. M. Newman, of Fleming county, at $3.25. Mr. Newman bought twenty 800-lb steers of Allen & Son at $3.35.

Al Anderson sold some 750-lb fat heifers to Calvert Meng, of Bourbon county, at 8.75.

A. S. Hart bought twelve 1160-lb steers of Murphy & Co. at $4.25.

Richard Falkner, of Grant county, bought 33 425-lb heifers of Allen & Son at $3.05.

A great many other sales made at about these prices.

Mules a little dull. A good many offered; a few large mules, but they were thin in order and owners wanted fat mule prices, so no trading done. Some 15 to 16½ mules at $350 to $350 per pair, small mules at $60 to $125.

McClintock & Son bought 12 or 15 head at $150 to $170.

Not a great many horses for sale. Some good horses at $150 to $170. Carpenter buying four or five head at these prices. Medium horses at $125 to $140, plugs at $50 to $55.

C. B. Fizer and E. C. Ekridge have formed a partnership to do furniture repairing, upholstering and Job work. Furniture will be bought and sold. Place of business Bank St. next to Advocate Office.

Base Ball.

On Monday afternoon the Mt. Sterling team crossed bats with the Paris team. Paris won the game by a score of 9 to 3.

The visitors hit the ball hard while the locals did not give Long extra support. Long, the new pitcher from Shelbyville, pitched the game. Chensult pitched the game on Tuesday, but up to the time of going to press we have not learned the result.

DEATHS.

SCOTT.—Wm. Scott, aged 77, died at Lexington on Sunday. He is the father of Chas. Scott, of the Lexington Opera House.

MOSES.—Nathan Broom Moses, of New York City, aged 19, died in New York last Wednesday. He was a brother to Mrs. S. M. Newmeyer, of this city.

TURNER.—Col. Squire Turner, a prominent lawyer and politician of Columbia, Mo., dropped dead at his home last Saturday, aged 70 years. He was related to G. T. Fox and the Turners of this place.

CLARK.—Mr. Joe M. Clark died at his home on Winn street Wednesday night, June 13, 1906. Mr. Clark had been in bad health for over two years. The remains were laid to rest in Macphelah Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. R. Hobbs. Mr. Clark has led the life of a farmer. He was a man of good habits, a gentleman and always had a kind heart for all. In Mr. Clark the community loses a most estimable man. We extend our hearty sympathy to his wife and two children.

TURNER.—On Tuesday night, June 12, 1906, at the home of Mr. George Snyder in this city, the life work of Mrs. Rachel Turner closed and her spirit returned to God. For many years she had been a widow, and her children had preceded her, the last to go being Mrs. Chas. Donabue who died recently in our city. Mrs. Turner was 80 years of age. The funeral service was conducted at the First Presbyterian church on Thursday morning by Rev. G. A. Joplin and the burial was in Macphelah. Well may the infirmities, joys and service of our earth life be exchanged for abounding life, sweeter joys and more perfect service in heaven.

MARRIAGES.

VICE-GARDNER.

Mr. Ora Vice and Miss Mollie Gardner, of Salt Lake, were married in the County Clerk's office last Thursday, Rev. W. T. Brooks officiating.

ANNOUNCEMENT.—Announcement has been made of the engagement of Maj. Sam W. Greene, of Louisville, formerly of this city, and Miss Blanche G. Jordan, of Tennessee. The wedding will occur June 28. Maj. Greene, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Greene, of this city, is a gentleman of the best character, and a prominent young lawyer of Louisville. His bride to be is a very popular young woman.

STARRATT-PICKENS.

On June 5, at Birmingham, Ala., Mr. Andrew Wilber Starratt and Miss Carrie Bland Pickens were united in marriage. Miss Pickens is one of the most popular and attractive young ladies of Birmingham. Mr. Starratt, a former Mt. Sterling boy, who now holds a position in the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., is a popular and deserving young man. His many friends here join us in wishing them a happy married life.

BRUTON-PREWITT.

In the presence of a few relatives and friends, Miss Pearl Bruton, of this city, and Mr. James Prewitt, of Jackson, Ky., were married on Thursday evening, June 14, 1906, at 8:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Bruton. Rev. H. D. Clark officiated. The ushers were John Judy, cousin of the bride and Cliff Prewitt, cousin of the groom, each bearing a ribbon leading from the parlor door to place where the couple stood. The floral decorations were attractive. Delicious refreshments were served. In cutting the bride's cake Misses Anna and Bettie Saunders, of Sharpsburg, received the ring and dime.

Friends and some relatives went to 9:45 train to say good-bye; but were disappointed. The bride and groom had quietly left the home telling only the bride's mother and cousin, and drove to Winchester, instead of to the depot, where they spent the night. They went to Chicago, and other places. On their return they will go to Jackson, where the groom is in the employ of the L. & E. Railway. Miss Bruton has been the principal of a popular select school in this city for several years. Socially religiously and educationally she will be greatly missed. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Prewitt, a young man who justly merits the respect and confidence and love of his many friends.

Preaching each evening except Saturday at Christian Church.

Remember the Wednesday and Saturday 3 o'clock service at the Christian Church.

There is a call from California for Brooks Bros to come over and help in a meeting.

Rev. E. O. Guerrant preaches here on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock; at Springfield on Sunday morning and at Sharpsburg at night.

Rev. J. E. Bohon, pastor of the Owingsville Methodist church, preached in our city on Sunday morning, as Rev. H. G. Turner was at Owingsville.

On Tuesday afternoon and evening of next week at Kiddville a magisterial district Sunday School Convention will be held. John Frazer and B. W. Trimble, of this city, are invited to take part.

Dr. J. F. Jones has a well preserved daguerrotype picture of Alexander Campbell taken in this city when Mr. Campbell made his tour through Kentucky. Dr. Jones' father received the picture from him.

A cordial invitation is extended to all women of the Christian church and to all others who will come to attend the Woman's Bible Class. During the year 1906 the average attendance has improved more than 50% over what it was in last year. On last Sunday there were 34.

Tonight at the Christian Church evangelist Brooks will deal with some questions which are worthy of thoughtful consideration by the people of our city and county if we are to have improved conditions. Under the title "If Christ Should Come to Mt. Sterling?" he will talk of the saloon, divorce and other facts which confront our social, business and religious life.

Rev. D. W. Robertson, Presiding Elder of the Shelbyville District of the Kentucky Conference came in and delivered a delightful, helpful and practical sermon at the Methodist church and got out of the city without getting into our sanctuary. We do not want this to occur again for no man comes in touch with Elder Robertson who does not have an opportunity for betterment. He was accompanied by Miss Lida and had been in attendance at the District Conference which met at Owingsville.

On Sunday afternoon the Patriotic Service at Christian church drew an attendance which taxed the entire capacity of the building the main auditorium was occupied by men. The gallery and annex were for women and children. The fraternal orders which attend ed in a body were, Odd Fellows, Ancient Order United Workmen, Red Men and Modern Woodmen of America. Many members of other orders were there. Evangelist Brooks' lecture on the New Citizen was pleasing, eloquent, entertaining and patriotic. Arthur Brooks sang: When the day is full of gladness. The congregation joined in the chorus in singing "God Bless Our Native Land" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

MILLION-DOLLAR POLICIES.

Number of Wealthy Americans Who Carry the Heaviest Insurance.
Men with large insurance formerly scattered it among many companies. John Wanamaker, for example, has $1,000,000 insurance in 35 policies. For a long time he carried the largest insurance in the United States. During the last ten years, however, very rich men have taken out large single policies.

The first $1,000,000 policy ever issued was taken out in 1887 by George W. Vanderbilt, at the age of 35, in the Mutual. It is a 20 payment life, 20 year distribution policy; that is, he is to pay a yearly premium of $35,000 for 20 years. At the end of this time he will receive a paid-up policy of $1,000,000 and a cash dividend. If the policy had been taken out 20 years ago, at the same age, he would have paid by this time the sum of $700,000 in premiums, which at four per cent. compound interest would amount to nearly $1,085,000.

The most heavily insured man in the world, says World's Work, is probably L. Rodman Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, who carries $2,000,000 in the Mutual, in addition to insurance in other companies. Mr. Wanamaker first took out his insurance in the Mutual, amounting to $200,000, at the age of 34. At 36 he increased it by two additional policies of $100,000 and $500,000. Five years later, at 41, he took two additional policies, one of $1,000,000 and the other of $200,000. This makes his total insurance in the company $2,000,000, on which he pays a yearly premium of $63,228.

The Wanamaker family in Philadelphia carries a total of $3,855,000 in life insurance, probably more than any other in the world. The largest single premium ever paid was $663,023.28, by a man in Los Angeles. It was for an income policy or annuity in the Mutual. It provided a life-income for himself and at his death life insurance for his children and his six grandchildren.

But all rich men do not carry life insurance. Andrew Carnegie, for example, does not believe in it and does not carry a single policy. The same is true of John D. Rockefeller.

REFUSED CARNEGIE LIBRARY

New Jersey Town Turned Down Offer Strenuously Opposed by Local Editor.

Maps showing the distribution of Mr. Carnegie's ten percent libraries are frequently printed to mark our enlightenment and progress. But a very good map might also be made of towns that have refused the ironmaster's gifts, says the Chicago Daily News.

Bed Bank, N. J., was one of these towns. When the proposal to give the place a Carnegie library was made the people were unanimously in favor of it and the

The Pain Family

You know them; they are numerous, and make their presence felt everywhere. The names of the family are Headache, Toothache, Earache, Backache, Stomach ache, Neuralgia, etc. They are sentinels that warn you of any derangement of your system. When the brain nerves become exhausted or irritated, Headache makes you miserable; if the stomach nerves are weak, indigestion results, and you double up with pain, and if the more prominent nerves are affected, Neuralgia simply makes life unendurable. The way to stop pain is to soothe and strengthen the nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do this. The whole Pain family yield to their influence. Harmless if taken as directed.

"I find Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills an excellent remedy for nervous headache, neuralgia and distressing pains of all sorts. I have used them for the past several years in this capacity with the best results."
MR. JOE MERRILL, Peru, Ind.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it does not, you may return the money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

They Stand Alone.

Standing out bold alone, and as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, debilitated, nervous, and other ailments. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or other ailments of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchi, or other organs (passages), also as an effective remedy for all diseases arising from the weakness or impure blood, as scrofula and skin diseases.

Each bottle of the above medicine bears upon its wrapper a list of home-owning in the full list of ingredients comprising it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publication places the medicine in a class all by themselves and is the best guarantee of their merit. They cannot be classed as patent medicines and are the best of their kind—being of proven composition.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the medicine into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicine before them because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly favored by the best of the most eminent medical writers as cures for the diseases for which the medicine is recommended. Therefore, the medicine is not a patent medicine, but a cure for the diseases for which it is recommended. A place at the printed formula on each bottle of the medicine is given, which is not a harmful or habit-forming drug, but a cure of the most effective of the roots of nature. American fact. These are plain and safe for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. Do Dr. Pierce's medicine and be cured by addressing him at Buffalo, N. Y. One little "Pill" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

authorities were about to accept the donation, when the editor of a local newspaper suddenly opposed the project. On the Laird of Skibo's conditions the town would not only have to provide a site, but provide the endowment in ten years in taxes. The building could never be used for anything but library purposes under the conditions laid down. After the editor had examined the gift horse's teeth he thought the town could easily build its own library and maintain it if one was wanted badly enough to impose the library tax made necessary by the Laird's generosity. Such a building, put up by the town, could be utilized for meetings, entertainments and other social purposes.

So the editor fought the gift, and though he was denounced by individuals and in mass meetings as an ungrateful renegade, finally succeeded in having the question put to popular vote. The opposition against him was so persistent and loud that it seemed before election as though the whole town wanted to accept the Carnegie endowment. But when the matter came to an actual ballot a silent majority that had figured out the proposition for itself voted it down by several hundred. The noisy minority that wanted the library amounted to only 36 votes.

IN THE HOMES OF GENOA.

Italians Who Use No Stoves for Heating Their Living Apartments.

The Genoese are not accustomed to the artificial high temperature which we maintain in America. Their houses, in fact, are constructed to contend entirely with summer heat and not with winter cold, being all built of stone, with enormously thick walls, floors of marble mosaic, ceilings from 10 to 15 feet high and larger partition walls nearly two feet thick. A dull, unheated fireplace, a ridiculously small oil stove or nothing but a little charcoal brazier is depended on to warm a vast room which is sumptuous in everything but comfort as we understand the word.

Hotels, even of the best class, are very slow in being provided with the so-called "central heating," while some of the finest old palaces are warmed no better today than they were when erected centuries ago. Churches, public buildings, theaters and halls make no pretense of being heated at all.

Such being the case and the native people wholly indifferent to a winter temperature which chills an American, the demand for stoves is naturally not very lively among them, but there are some 3,000 or 4,000 foreigners, living here, and all fairly well to do, besides the thousands of travelers constantly coming and going, all of whom prefer better heated houses and hotels. The Genoese himself enjoys the outdoor air and puts on heavier clothing when he comes inside his "marble

ENGLISH IN THE MOUNTAINS

Where "A Pope of Snapples" Is Undoubtedly to Mean a Bag of Beans.

Some persons from the north were spending a month in the mountains of West Virginia in a log cabin on the mountainside. One morning, relates Youth's Companion, as they sat on the porch admiring the view, a little mountain girl in short blue calico dress and bright pink sunbonnet bounced round the side of the cabin.

"Howdy!" she said. "Mammy wants to know if you all don't want a poke of snapples this mornin'."

"A what?" the northerners asked, in amazement.

"A poke of snapples," staidly repeated. Then, evidently overcome with shyness, she darted through the underbrush before the newcomers could decide whether or not they wanted a "poke of snapples."

The expression got into the systems of the visitors, until curiosity made one of them take her way to the little farmhouse.

"I will take a poke of snapples, please," she said, frowning all the while the mountain woman would laugh in her face or think her an escaped lunatic.

But very gravely the woman disappeared, and soon returned, handing the caller a bag of string beans. The beans, which snapples in the mountains are called "snapples," which is a good old word for bag that has survived from the Shaksperian English of the early English settlers.

Quiet and Puzzling.

The addresses in Persian upon letters which go through the post office at Calcutta are often quaint and puzzling. An Indian paper recently translated one as follows: "If the Almighty please—let this envelope, having arrived at the city of Calcutta, in the neighborhood of Calcuttalah, at the counting-house of Mirajooden and Huhud, merchants, be offered to and read by the happy light of my eyes, or virtuous manner and beloved of the heart—Miss Shaloo, my dear Ally, may her life be long. Written on the tenth of the blessed Ruzman, Saturday, in the year 1266 of the Reign of our Prophet, and dispatched at Baring."

Words on Post-Card.

A Melbourne clerk has just achieved a great feat of penmanship. With a steel pen, and with out the use of a magnifying glass, he has inscribed on a post card no fewer than 10,161 words. The writing consists of selections by the works of Shakespeare and Dickens, a chapter from Genesis, and the song, "Home, Sweet Home." The work is so beautiful by done that many people have been able to read the writing with the naked eye.

Historic Kells.

The original commission of Thomas Lord Fairfax, baron of Cameron, was found several days ago at Winchester, Va., among some old letters and documents bought by Dr. Charles von Witt, of that city. It is elaborately engraved on parchment, dated in England, April, 1738, and is in a fair state of preservation.

Christians in Japan.

The increase of Christians in Japan during the year 1904 was about ten per cent. In round numbers, the Christians of Japan—Protestants, Roman Catholic and Greek—number about 154,000 church members, with a community of about 450,000.

Wear on Boot-Leather.

Two inches of boot-leather, on an average, are worn away by every person in the United Kingdom every year. A pair of boots that would last a lifetime would, consequently, have to be provided with soles from 12 to 13 feet thick.

Proud to Be Kin.

Of such heroic energy, rapid action and faith in the future as Americans are exhibiting today, what can we say except that we are proud that these men are of the same race as ourselves?—London Express.

Only One.

Patient—My mother gave an egg sandwich lunch, yesterday.
Patience—Oh, did she? And who got the egg?—Yonkers Statesman.

WHY "MEHR" ENGLAND?

Americans in Land of Pope Wanted to Know Who Gave It That Name.

Offer Johnson, of Indianapolis, who was vice consul general in London under John C. New nearly 15 years ago, was one of the wits of the Century club when that institution—now defunct—was the daily meeting place of a circle that comprised the late James H. Ogwood and James McNeill Whistler, Jonathan Sturges, Isaac Henderson, Poultony Bigger, Arthur Brisbane, Edwin A. Abbey and other well-known Americans then resident in the British metropolis.

On a certain Sunday in November Johnson was lunching with an English friend at the club. A Sunday in London, owing to laws similar to those that regulate the observance of the Lord's day in American cities, is not only exhilarating, and during the day the sun is obscured it is one of the most melancholy places within the confines of civilization. No Londoner who can possibly get away for the day ever remains in town, but on this occasion Johnson and his friend had missed their train to the country and were forced to make the best of their unhappy lot in the urban gloom.

Having finished their luncheon the two men sat looking through the windows into a yellow fog in Grafton street for an hour without exchanging a word. They were the only members in the club; the streets were all but deserted; there was nothing to do and no place to go in all the big town.

Finally Johnson broke the silence. Turning to his English friend he said with extreme bitterness: "Will you be kind enough to inform me who in the name of Saint Ananias it was that named this place 'Merry' England?"

HERO WORSHIP AND MAPS.

Influence of Great Men of America Shown in Naming of Many Places.

Hero worship has had a hand in the making of maps, says an exchange. We have most offices bearing the names of every great deed down to and including Mr. Roosevelt. Only two of his predecessors are lacking in the list of counties. Naturally the frontier in the naming of towns and counties is Washington, and he is the only president whose name has been named. But others than presidents enjoy these honors.

Successful soldiers, statesmen, editors, authors, inventors, the heroes of ancient history and mythology and even popular actors and athletes share a like distinction. One list of post offices is a long one and contains names from almost every language, living and dead, and chosen on almost every conceivable principle or impulse.

Two counties in Kansas present a curious association of ideas. Greeley county has for its capital a town called Tribune, and Trego is the county seat of Trego. New stations were to be named along a western railway some years ago and they were named after the members of a professional baseball team that happened just then to win the championship.

Figures with the Hands.

The Indians of Guinea have a curious system of numeration. They count by the hand, and use four fingers. Thus, when they reach five, they call it a "hand." Six is therefore a "hand and first finger," seven a "hand and second finger," Ten is "two hands," 20, instead of being "four hands," is "a man," 100 is "10 men," and thus they go on by twenties. Forty-six is expressed as "two men, a hand, and first finger."

Improved Conditions.

Life of today is easier, safer and smoother than life 100 years ago, says an eminent physician; and people are much healthier, as well as stronger and better grown than their ancestors.

Many Malefactors.

The prison population of Italy is, compared to the whole population, three times as great as England's.

Ever Upward.

If you will climb upward you must look upward, think upward and live upward.

EX-CONVICTS' SETTLEMENT

Co-Operative Organization Formed by Law-Breakers for Reformatory Purposes.

With the assistance of Cleveland workhouse officials a band of former lawbreakers has formed an organization, the essential principles of which are self-reform and brotherly co-operation, says the World's To-day. The man who has dropped from his place in society is the association's aim, for its promoters believe the prisoner who has lost in his fall from honesty or decency must recover his self-respect before he can be of use in the world. The workhouse officials were made members, serving in an advisory capacity. The work of carrying out the released prisoners' ideas is mainly in the hands of the members themselves and to attain their ends they have rented a home, fitted it in comfortable style and started an account in the savings bank. The workhouse parole officer serves as cashier. Assisted by city officials the members have obtained employment. They are leading honest lives and aside from helping one another are now engaged in rescuing men who like themselves have failed to resist temptation or who never knew right from wrong.

Thugs, crooks and drunkards are living together. They are going out to work at honest toil without the public seeing the taint on their names. Twenty-three men form the society. Half dozen from publicists' searchlight give their way un molested by prying eyes. Their neighbors do not know their past. In no way does the home seem unlike the several other homes of bachelors in a large city. Each of the large family has his share toward making the place a real home. The spirit of co-operation is seen in everything. Each does his part. They are proving that the good men can be brought out if the proper methods are employed.

POST OFFICE AS COLLECTOR

Trade-man of Vienna Secures Payment of Debts Through That Medium.

A debt-collecting agency which is run as a part of the regular postal system is the newest "improvement" of the post office of Austria. Despite the novelty of the enterprise the plan has worked admirably so that thousands of pounds are collected annually by the postmen through the Austrian empire. The system is very simple. Suppose a tradesman has a bill as account due from a customer in any such a distant town as Budapest, which he wishes to collect. Distance does not matter in the least. He merely sends the bill to the post office in the capital, whence it is at once transmitted to the post office at Budapest. There the postman presents it to the debtor, collects the cash, and returns it to the Vienna post office, whence it is delivered to the tradesman by postman. In the event of payment being refused, which, of course, sometimes happens, the creditor is promptly apprised of the fact and valuable time is thus frequently saved.

Revel Work in Wales.

The South Wales Daily Mail has had several articles of late that aim to stir up the results of the great revival in the principality. While there is acknowledgment that all the converts have not endured, yet it is stated as beyond doubt that the great religious awakening has touched the whole circle of the life of the people for good. The total number of converts is conservatively estimated at 90,000.

All a Mistake.

"Isn't it a fact, professor, that the trouble-shakers are caused by one-half of the world not knowing how the other half lives?"

"My dear sir, the trouble comes from the one-half trying to find out."—Chicago Tribune.

Different Metal.

"A wonderfully isn't she?" "Miss Roxley? Oh, my, yes." "I wonder what led Jack to propose to her?" "I don't lead, but gold."—Philadelphia Press.
